BANK MAY BE REORGANIZED

HOPKINS DEPOSITORS TO DISCUSS PLANS.

INVENTORY NOT OVER

Meeting Can Be Called When Bank Examiner Completes Work.—Condition Not Bad, Says Hopkins Journal.

Plans for re-organization of the Bank of Hopkins, which was closed Saturday by its directors, will be discussed at a meeting of its depositors to be called as soon as R. E. Shelby, bank examiner, has completed his work, according to the Hopkins Journal, issued today.

Mr. Shelby has stated that it will require probably a week or ten days for him to complete his inventory. After that is completed the doors of the bank will be opened and persons having safety deposit boxes may call and get their contents.

The Journal features a poem, "Keep a Stiff Upper Lip," and has the following details about the bank's affairs:

"This step was taken voluntarily by the bank officials, although Mr. Wolfers and Mr. Donlin both say the bank was in better condition than at any time during the past two years, having a reserve of 20 per cent of the deposits, while only 15 per cent is required. The deposits of the bank had increased more than $10,000 since the last bank statement was made only a few months ago. There is $78,000 in time deposits and $115,000 in checking, making a total of $193,000 on deposit.

"Perhaps the greatest regret in the closing of the bank is the fact that it is not believed to be in a really bad condition, and with a little time allotted it, everything would have worked out all right.

"In the last twenty-five years Mr. Wolfers and Mr. Donlin have been the leading factors of the institution and no hard feelings are held against them.

"Both put everything they had into the bank in an effort to save the institution and have lost. While a re-organization of the bank will save the depositors, the earnings of a life time of these two men have been swept away.

"Their records for honesty and sincerity of purpose are unsullied. Both have given liberally of their time and means in the upbuilding of Hopkins. Stimulated by their counsel and toil, Hopkins has advanced through the years until it is now considered the most attractive town as well as the best trading point between Creston and St. Joseph, overshadowing in progressiveness any town of its size in the state.

"Mr. Donlin has served as mayor and is now a member of the city council, and all regret to learn that it is now his intention to leave Hopkins, the failure of the bank making it necessary for him to go out into the world to retrieve his lost fortune.

"Mr. Wolfers talks some of going to Chicago to make his home with his son, Robert, but all are hoping he will decide to continue to make Hopkins his home, for we cannot afford to lose two such estimable and highly respected families.

"The Farmers and Merchants bank of this city offered every assistance possible to keep the doors of the opposition bank open, and none regret its closing more than the officers of that institution.

"The Farmers and Merchants bank is said to be in the best condition of any bank of its size in the state and most of the customers of the Bank of Hopkins are now doing business with it, feeling that the only way to keep Hopkins up to its present high standard is to patronize a home institution, especially when they can do so to their advantage and convenience and with perfect safety.

"Everything is going to work out all right, no one is going to lose anything to speak of by the closing of the bank if it is reorganized. Hopkins is going to continue to grow and prosper, so read the featured poem on this page—and 'KEEP ON SMILING.'"

Return from N. Dak.

Mrs. Raymond Lahr and son, Jimmie, returned yesterday from a visit with relatives at Devils Lake, N. Dak. Canadian and other northern points. They had been gone six weeks.

Savannah Road Much Improved by Ditching

Ditching and, in some places, widening of the road between Savannah and the end of the pavement south of Maryville has been completed and the road is expected to be much better during the rest of the summer because of better drainage, according to H. H. Davidson, project engineer here for the State Highway Commission. A ten-ton tractor and a large blade were used in the work.

The new paving on the Maryville-Pickering road will be opened about July 19. All work has been completed except building up of shoulders and building of farm entrances.

PUREBRED LIVESTOCK BASIS OF PROSPERITY, DEAN SAYS.

IS BANQUET SPEAKER

Seventy Five Livestock Men From Five States Present at Country Club Affair Last Night.

Purebred livestock is the basis for agricultural prosperity, Dean C. F. Curtis of the Iowa State Agricultural College, Ames, Ia., told those at the Shorthorn breeders banquet at the Maryville Country Club last night.

The banquet was given under the auspices of the Missouri Shorthorn Breeders Association and about seventy-five livestock men from Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri and Illinois were present.

Dean Curtis is very optimistic over the outlook for agriculture, especially in the Middle West. He bases his optimism on the present prices of hogs and sheep and the shortage of beef cattle throughout the central states.

Hogs never made more money than at the present time, he said, and the time is rapidly approaching when beef cattle will be sold at correspondingly high prices.

"When the farmers of the Middle West realize there is a shortage of beef cattle and take steps to profit from this condition, agriculture will again become a profitable business," the Iowa agriculturist declared. "The danger is that we will not see this changing condition soon enough.

"Breeders are rapidly realizing the necessity for good blood. Nothing but well-bred stock will take of this increased demand for first-class beef cattle."

Cattle "Coming Back."

Dean Curtis believes the cattle industry is fast "coming back" and that the other agricultural industries are "already back." Regarding markets for farm products, the speaker said that the best market is through the feeding of livestock on the farm.

C. D. Bellows was the toastmaster at the banquet last night. The address of welcome was delivered by George L. Wilfley.

In a short address, Frank C. Baker, president of the Missouri Shorthorn Breeders Association, called attention to the increasing shortage in beef cattle. In 1900, there were fifty million head of beef cattle in the country, Mr. Baker said. In 1910, the number had decreased to forty-one million and it was about the same in 1920. Last year, Mr. Baker said, there was thirty-nine million head of beef cattle in the country.

Baby Bees Popular.

Within the last few years, there has been a growing demand for baby beehives and the housewife has appreciated this kind of beef. Purebred Shorthorns will stimulate the baby beef industry.

The shortage of beef cattle means that America will soon be on a domestic market basis and that higher prices will result, Mr. Baker believes.

E. A. Trowbridge of the College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri, Col. N. G. Kraschel of Harlan, Ia., Col. Scotty Milne of Mt. Pleasant, Ia., and A. O. Stanley of Sheridan were also present and made short talks.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. McCaffrey and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis G. Cook will leave Sunday morning for Excelsior Springs where they will spend the Fourth with Judge and Mrs. John M. Dawson who are visiting there for a few weeks.

Miss Evelyn Credit of Tarkio is the guest of Miss Cleo Shackelford.

HOUSES MUST BE APPROVED

REQUIREMENTS SENT TO MARYVILLE PEOPLE TODAY.

MUST FILL OUT CARD

Women Rooming in Other Than Approved Houses Will Not Be Allowed to Enter College.

"I have read the college requirements for approved houses and agree to meet them. I hereby make application for my house to be placed on the approval list for the year.

Signed—Mrs. John Doe."

This is the form which householders will have to send to Miss Edith A. Barnard, dean of women at the State Teachers College, in order to keep women students of the College as roomers after the present summer quarter at the institution has ended.

Requirements for approved houses for women students were sent out to householders of Maryville from the College late this afternoon. In the future, women living at houses other than those approved by the College will not be allowed to matriculate in the institution.

Following are the requirements for approved houses:

All householders must make an annual written application for placement on the approved list. This application must be in the office of the dean of women not later than July 10, if students are desired for the fall quarter; October 1, if they are desired for the winter quarter; January 1, if they are desired for the spring quarter; March 1, if they are desired for the summer quarter.

New householders will be required to furnish business and character references.

A room must not be occupied by more than two students. Exceptions to this rule may only be made by special arrangement.

No cooking and sleeping in the same room.

No house will be accepted which does not provide a general reception room in which students are free to receive their callers.

No house will be accepted where there are more than ten persons to use one bath room. Special exceptions to this rule will not be made except where there are additional toilet arrangements.

Houses must not be left over night without responsible persons in charge. These persons must be approved by the dean of women before the householder leaves town.

Approval cards are not transferable. A house now on the approved list will not necessarily remain there under new management.

Approval cards are granted for one year only.

Houses may be removed from the approved list during the year for:

Not enforcing student regulations.

Failure of householders to attend housemothers' meetings.

Failure to report the breaking of student regulations and cases of severe illness.

Failure to provide sufficient hot water for the number of baths specified in the student regulations.

Failure to keep rooms sufficiently warm at all times and sufficiently lighted for study purposes.

For keeping men, either students or outsiders, in the houses with women students. Exception to this rule can be made only after a thorough understanding by the dean of women and after the arrangement is approved by her.

The College reserves the right to issue cards first to:

Houses where there has been willing co-operation in the past.

Houses which are best equipped as to heat, light, sanitation, furnishings, bath room facilities, etc.

Houses where there are no daughters, and A. O. Stanley of Sheridan were also present and made short talks.

Donald Robey Here.

Donald Robey, a manual arts instructor in the Roosevelt High School, Los Angeles, arrived in Maryville yesterday for a visit at the home of his brother, O. L. Robey. Mr. Robey left Los Angeles at 2 o'clock last Friday afternoon and arrived in Kansas City at noon yesterday. He will be here until August 15.

Charles Butler to Jail for Tire Theft

Charles Hopkins Also Is Sentenced for Operating Car With License Stolen From Another.

Two jail sentences were imposed upon defendants in the justice court of W. L. Johnson this afternoon. Charles Butler, charged with petit larceny, was ordered confined for six months and Charles Hopkins, charged with operating a motor car without a license, was given a three-months sentence.

Butler, who said he had been in Maryville about two weeks, admitted he stole two tires from an automobile owned by Herschel Flite. When arrested he had put one of the tires on his own car and was preparing to put the other one on, according to the officers.

Hopkins had a license which belonged to John Porter of Maryville. He denied that he had stolen it but pleaded guilty to the charge of operating a car without a license.

STAPLES OUT -STAPLES IN LOCAL EXPRESS AGENT RETIRES IN FAVOR OF WIFE.

BEEN HERE 48 YEARS

Veteran Took Office When Wabash Instituted Line Through Maryville. A Promotion for Mrs.

W. J. Staples, American Railway Express Co., agent in Maryville for the last forty-eight years, has been retired by the company on a pension. Today a new agent occupies the Maryville office. Late yesterday afternoon Mr. Staples made his final check of the office and turned the keys over to his successor.

One would have supposed that the veteran agent would have turned over his authority with a certain amount of regret. But such was not the case. It is even understood that he passed over the keys with noticeable pride for the new agent had been his cashier and clerk for more than ten years—and, incidentally, her name is also Staples—Mrs. W. J., if you please.

The express company automatically retires its employees on a pension after they have reached the age of 70 years. Mr. Staples is now past that age. He first took the agency here when the Wabash instituted its line through Maryville, forty-eight years ago in October.

When asked if he would just trade jobs with his wife, Mr. Staples said that he would no longer be connected with the local office in any official capacity, but the new agent said, "He's going to work for me for nothing."

"All in the family" is true in this case. With the exception of vacation times, when a special agent has been sent here, the Maryville express office has never been out of the Staples jurisdiction.

Draw Net on Plotters to Assassinate Alfonso

French Authorities Notify Scotland Yards To Be On Lookout For Three Youths Believed On Way.

Paris, July 1.—Fearing another attempt to assassinate King Alfonso of Spain, now in London, the French authorities today notified Scotland Yards to be on the lookout for three well-dressed youths, all of whom are anarchists with criminal records.

With the arrest of two Spaniards on Monday, the French authorities announced they have crushed a plot to murder the Spanish monarch.

The belief was expressed that the pair were members of a band of five who have come from Argentina for the expressed purpose of assassinating King Alfonso. The remaining three are at large and it is feared that they would follow the king to England and carry out their plans which were frustrated in Paris.

Wheat Yield Good on E. T. Bailey Farm

Wheat cutting is in full progress in the vicinity of Elmo, according to E. T. Bailey, presiding judge of the County Court. Mr. Bailey has cut one piece of seven acres which he believes will yield twelve bushels to the acre. He also has twelve acres more ready to cut now.

SAY PAPER IS GREAT FORCE

EDUCATES PARENTS, ACCORDING TO P. T. A. SCHOOL.

A TALK ON DISCIPLINE

Visitors to Tour Maryville This Afternoon and Be Guests at a Reception Tonight.

That the newspaper is the greatest force for educating parents to the valuable lessons of child study was the opinion of the women attending the parent-teacher association school of instruction at the State Teachers College. Last night, Burt W. Loomis, teacher at the College, spoke on the contributions which psychology is making to child study. This morning there was a great deal of discussion on the matter, and the foregoing conclusion was drawn.

"The foundation for the child's habits and emotional life is laid in the first fourteen months of his life," Mrs. Paul A. Johnstone of Kansas City told the gathering yesterday afternoon. She spoke on "Pre-School Age" as a substitute for Mrs. Paul F. Cope of Kansas City, who was unable to attend the meeting on account of illness.

Mrs. Johnstone spoke on "Discipline" this morning. She said that the whole story of discipline is bound up in the quatrains by Edwin Markham:

"He drew a circle and shut me out,
Heretic, rebel, a thing to elude;
But love and I had the will to win;
We drew a circle and shut him in."

The local parent-teacher association will entertain the visitors of the school with a reception at the home of Mrs. L. L. St. Clair beginning at 7:30 o'clock tonight. This reception will be in honor of the national and state officers.

From 4 to 5 o'clock this afternoon the visitors will be taken on an automobile tour of Maryville.

A number of out-of-town visitors motored here for the meeting today. They were: Mrs. John Rush and Mrs. Beulah J. Campbell of Barnard; Mrs. Isabelle Schweiger, Mrs. Lulu Moore, Mrs. S. D. Large, Mrs. Olive Osborne, Mrs. Leonard Thompson, Mrs. James L. Foy, Mrs. Clifford B. Adams, Mrs. J. D. Dawson, Mrs. Mildred Muir, Mrs. True Davis, and Mrs. Nellie Lindner, all of St. Joseph.

Mrs. Charles E. Roe, national dry worker of Washington, D. C., in speaking on technique this morning, said that parent-teacher meetings should be interesting, instructive, and magnetic.

"The work of the parent-teacher association is constructive, preventive, and creative, rather than corrective," she said.

Mrs. W. A. Masters, state chairman, spoke on the number of illiterates in Missouri this afternoon. Mrs. Paul Cope of Kansas City, arrived at noon today and spoke this afternoon on high school circles.

The total registration at the school was thirty-three today. Seventeen associations from five towns were represented.

One Killed and Two Wounded in Shooting

Farmer Near Bethany Angered Over Attempt to Make Settlement of Minor Lawsuit.

St. Joseph, July 1.—Angered over an attempt to make a settlement in a minor law suit, Jacob McClure, 50 years old, a farmer living near Bethany, Mo., yesterday seriously wounded Charles Miller, former prosecuting attorney of Harrison County, and Arthur Stanley, constable of Bethany township, and then killed himself, it was learned today.

McClure opened fire on the men without warning while the three were at the farmer's home discussing the suit, according to the report. There was no quarrel preceding the shooting, the two wounded men say.

When he attempted to escape, Stanley was shot down with a charge from a shotgun which entered his left side. His condition is critical. Miller was shot in the hip but will recover.

After the shooting, McClure returned to his home and shot himself with a revolver.

Mr. and Mrs. George Deshazer and family, Mrs. Lena Bashford, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martin, Mr. and Mrs. George Walker and William O'Banion of Ravenwood were Maryville visitors today.

Receives 260 Bids for Road Work in State

Bids Cover Thirty-Nine Projects in Seventeen Counties.—117 Miles and Ten Bridges.

Jefferson City, July 1.—State Highway Engineer Piepmeyer today received 260 bids for the construction of 117 miles of road and ten bridges estimated to cost approximately two million dollars. The bids cover thirty-nine projects in seventeen counties, and will provide 62.5 miles of gravel, 39.8 miles of graded earth, and 16.1 miles of clearing and grubbing. The largest project is the construction of a bridge over the Osage River at Warsaw on State highway No. 3. The projects are located in the counties of Holt, DeKalb, Sullivan, Putnam, Platte, Benton, Cooper, Howard, Camden, Taney, Stone, Texas, Dent, Shannon, Reynolds, Wright and Ripley.

BIG BRIBE A BIG MYSTERY

O'CONNER DENIES STORY OF $100,000 OFFER.

WOULD END INQUIRIES

Three Million Dollar Pennsylvania Republican Primary Is Pushed Into Background.

Washington, July 1.—The reported offer of a $100,000 bribe by an organization of Representative William S. Vare, victor in Pennsylvania's three-million-dollar Senatorial primary, to buy off the opposition of Judge Frank X. O'Connor, a Philadelphia magistrate, was clouded with further mystery today when O'Connor reappeared before the Senate slush fund committee to again deny the story.

O'Connor said he never had given the story of the bribe offer to Philadelphia newspaper men, although three Philadelphia reporters since have testified under oath that the Philadelphia magistrate told them of the alleged offer.

Washington, July 1.—The three million dollar Pennsylvania Republican primary was pushed into the background today at the Senate slush fund investigation while the Reed committee hastened to conclude its inquiry into political activities of national wet and dry organizations.

The committee summoned Charles Wood and John T. Flood of the Pennsylvania Association Against the Prohibition Amendment to learn more about its activities in the three million dollar campaign. The committee also recalled Wayne B. Wheeler, general council of the Anti-Saloon League, to resume its inquiry into the nationwide activities of the dry organization.

No Trace of Robbers of St. Joseph Bank

But Police There Believe They Have Valuable Information Which May Lead To Early Developments.

St. Joseph, July 1.—The police today have not picked up the trail of the bandits who, yesterday, held up the Drovers and Merchants Bank, escaping with more than $5,000, but they declared they had valuable clues from which they expect early developments. They expressed confidence that the bandits were seen by a 12-year-old boy, who saw the satchel containing the loot transferred from a new Buick touring car to a Buick sedan on the Sparta road, which connects with the Kansas City highway.

There were four men in the touring car and a middle-aged man and a girl about 18 years old in the sedan. The touring car was later found abandoned near the city limits and it is supposed from tire tracks in the dirt that the four bandits in the touring car were taken into the sedan.

The police say the abandoned touring car in which the bandits escaped from the bank had a license issued at Kansas City.

Diss Funeral Rites Held Tomorrow A. M.

Funeral services for Mrs. J. S. Diss, who died at her home on West First street Tuesday afternoon, will be held at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning at St. Patrick's Church. The Rev. Father Niemann will officiate. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery. The pallbearers will include John Graham, Thomas Parle, Thomas Tobin, Henry Messbarger, William Doffing and Ed Costello.

WILL "CARRY ON" AT HOME

FARM BLOC MEMBERS TO CONTINUE FIGHT FOR RELIEF.

OUTGROWS PARTY LINE

A Threat to Copy Anti-Saloon League Tactics and Carry Issue To Polls.

Washington, June 30.—Members of the senate farm bloc will "carry on" with their fight for farm relief back home now that congress has failed to give them the legislation they desired. Farmer senators made known today they will take the issue before the voters this fall and will revive their Haugen equalization fee bill at the December session.

Three weeks' wrangling in the senate over the farm relief came to an end with a tumultuous 10-hour session yesterday, featured by the overwhelming defeat of the Coolidge-endorsed Fess farm loan bill and all other farm bills except a co-operative measure which was passed without a roll call just before adjournment.

The co-operative bill, which sets up a division in the department of agriculture to "promote" co-operative marketing, has passed the house. It represents the sum total of what the farmer has received from the present session. Adjournment of congress is now set for Saturday night.

Washington, July 1.—The farm bloc, embittered over the defeat administered to its cherished McNary-Haugen bill by the Coolidge administration, threatened today to copy the tactics of the Anti-Saloon League and deal out punishment or reward at the polls, irrespective of party affiliation.

If carried out as the corn belt spokesmen said, it would mean that the fight for farm relief has outgrown party lines just as the wet and dry issue and the world court fight, and constitutes a real menace to the popular domination of the grain states of the Middle West.

Representative L. J. Dickinson, Republican of Iowa, is the leader of the farm bloc in the house and today made this announcement: "We are going to advise the farm organizations to see that members of Congress elected in November are committed to a program of real farm relief, which must embody the principles of equality for agriculture under our economic system."

Nye Is Apparent Victor in N. Dak. Primary

Coolidge Candidate For Senatorial Nomination Virtually Concedes His Defeat By Insurgent.

Fargo, N. D., July 1.—L. B. Hanna, Coolidge Republican candidate for the Republican Senatorial nomination from North Dakota, this afternoon virtually conceded victory for his opponent, Gerald P. Nye, insurgent.

"If the returns available are correct, both Governor Sorlie and Nye have been nominated," Hanna said.

CATTLE SALE BIG SUCCESS

AVERAGE PAID WAS $240 ON FIFTY HEAD.

TOP PRICE IS $1,225

About Five Hundred Persons From Five States Attend Bellows-Mutz Shorthorn Sale.

The most successful Shorthorn sale in six years at the Bellows farm was the one yesterday, Dale Bellows said this morning. Bellows Bros., and H. H. Mutz were the sellers.

The average price was $240 on fifty head. The top was $1,225, paid for Sultan Laird, a bull, by Johnston & Auld, Red Cloud, Neb.

The average for the eleven bulls was $312 and for the thirty-nine females, $230. Most of the bulls went to dealers in Nebraska and immediately surrounding territory. About five hundred persons were present at the sale yesterday and the five states of Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and Illinois were represented in the gathering.

Indications point to far better conditions in the Shorthorn business, Mr. Bellows said, and there is a growing sentiment among livestock dealers for the purebred stock.

Estimate Wheat Crop in State Much Less

Believe Yield in Missouri Will Be About 7 Million Bushels Under Last Year's Crop.

Topeka, Kan., July 1.—The total wheat yield for the United States from the 1926 crop was placed today at 522,500,000 bushels as compared to 593,500,000 bushels last year by J. E. Garrell, head of the department of agriculture of the Santa Fe Railroad.

Missouri's wheat crop was forecast at 15 million bushels, a decrease of 7,100,000 bushels from 1925.

"Dry weather hurt Missouri wheat but reports from several threshings indicate a fair quality of grain. Oats headed short in Missouri and the yield will be below normal. Recent rains, however, have aided Missouri corn," the report said.

Miss Ruth Cook, Miss Anna Mae Adams and Miss Bessie Cole of Barnard were Maryville visitors today.

QUIET FOURTH IN MARYVILLE

STORES AND BANKS TO BE CLOSED ON MONDAY.

NO SPECIAL PROGRAM

However, Various Contests Have Been Arranged At Country Club—No Paper Issued Monday.

The Fourth of July will be quietly observed in Maryville on Monday, the Fifth of July.

All the banks of the city will be closed throughout the day. At the postoffice, the windows will remain closed, but the lobby will be open. There will be no regular delivery of mail, either in the city or on rural routes. However, special deliveries and perishable articles will receive attention. The mail will be distributed to the boxes. It was said at the postoffice this morning that if persons will leave special delivery stamps at the office, their mail will be delivered.

The meat markets and grocery stores will be open until 10 o'clock Monday morning and will make one delivery. However, they will be closed after this hour. All other stores will be closed throughout the day.

The city and county offices will also be closed.

There will be no special program in observance of the day, although the officers of the Maryville Country Club have arranged a golf tournament and various other contests. There will also be an exhibition by Battery C and a display of fireworks.

The Democrat Forum and Tribune will not issue a paper on Monday.

The St. Joseph markets will be open both Saturday and Monday.

Country Club Head Sets Example; Goes Nine Holes in 39

Dr. Jesse Miller, president of the Maryville Country Club, set a 1926 record for local golfers when he went around the nine-hole course yesterday in 39. With the president as companions and witnesses were Forrest Gilman, Dr. H. S. Dawell, Ed Dale and Albert Mercer.

Doctor Miller made the third hole in two. His card was as follows: 4-4-2-5-3-6-4-5-6-39.

Swallow's Record Flight

A sea swallow, ringed in Northumberland, England, early in 1919, is reported to have been captured at Cape Town.

Mr. H. F. Witherby, the ornithologist, and the moving spirit in the British bird-marking scheme, stated recently that more than 18,000 birds were ringed in 1924, while more than 150,000 birds have been so marked since 1909.

One of the most remarkable cases of migration was the crossing of the Atlantic by a kittiwake gull, which was ringed in the Farne islands in 1923, and was afterwards shot in Newfoundland in 1924.

Swallows have the longest range of flight, and in several cases ringed birds have been found in South Africa. Teal and mallard come next.

AFTER these few days of hot weather is it not time to come in and look over our stock of summer needs.

WHY MOTHERS GET GRAY—
THE BIG SPREAD.

Suit Would Partition Land of Mrs. R. B. Gex

A partition suit for hearing in Circuit Court has been filed by Robert B. Gex, sr., with his daughter, Mamie Gex, and his grandchildren, Brookings Rouse Gex, Mary Charlotte Gex and Betty Ruth Gex, J. S. Shinabargar, trustee, the Farmers Trust Co., and the New York Life Insurance Co. as defendants.

The suit asks for partition of the south half of the southeast quarter of section 29, township 63, range 36, near Graham, which was owned by Mrs. Elizabeth F. Gex at the time of her death, July 3, 1924. The husband, R. B. Gex, sr., to the petition, in August of last year acquired the interests of his other children, Mrs. Frances Gex Wilson, Mrs. Louie Gex Mountjoy, Mrs. Ellen Catterson, Mrs. Betty Mills, John A., William B., Louis E., and Robert B. Gex, Jr.

The suit also asks for an equal division of an encumbrance of $10,000 between the eighty acres involved and an adjoining eighty acres.

Beulah Pauline and Betty Jane Campbell of Barnard are guests this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Coil.

Newman Club Picnic.

The alumni and active members and advisors of the Newman Club enjoyed a picnic last evening at the Elm Grove school. About seventy-five were in the party. A fried chicken supper was served. The company was divided into tribes of twelve and during the supper each gave a yell, song and toast.

A subcommittee, in the days before the United States had been made safe for feminine democracy, was holding forth at a meeting on the fallings of men. They were, she said, stupid, prejudiced, and so on. Finally a stern-visaged man stood up. "May I ask you a question?" he inquired. The woman speaker nodded. "Does your husband share your views?" "Not yet," "Ah," said the interrupter triumphantly, "I thought so." "I may add," said the woman sweetly, "that I'm not married."

Novel Fan

A leather belt with a shield at the side for a fan in the shape of a knife is a novelty for use with tailored or sports clothes.

Drab Realism

The poet Michael Strange—Mrs. John Barrymore—defended at a Greenwich village tea idealistic art contrasted with realistic art.

"Let us have idealism and romance in our poetry and pictures," she said, "for nowhere else are these jolly things to be found. Life itself is horribly drab and uneventful."

The fair poetess smiled, then she added:

"In life nothing ever comes off except buttons."

Increased Cable Speed

The first section of the new transatlantic cable to connect Great Britain and Newfoundland has been completed, and the task of laying it will soon begin. Then will follow the laying of the shorter section between Newfoundland and New York.

With all this completed, at a cost estimated at $25,000,000, London and New York will be connected by the most speedy cable in the world's history, operating at a speed of 500 (five letter) words, or 2,500 letters per minute, both ways simultaneously.

This remarkable increase of speed is made possible by the wrapping of the copper core, or conductor, of the cable in the new alloy, known as "permalloy," which prevents any possible leakage of current and permits the electric impulses to follow each other in more rapid succession than heretofore.

"Pigs Is Taxes" in China

"Pigs is pigs," but according to Chinese military officials they are more than that—they are a good source of revenue. Hence when the new regime took control of Shanghai and looked around for possible sources of income it decided to impose a tax on every pig that enters Shanghai.

The city magistrate gave orders that the headquarters and social club of the Shanghai pig dealers be closed and sent a posse of Chinese police to see that his orders were carried out until the new tax was paid. The levy proved unpopular from the start and led to curtailed demand for this luxury by Chinese buyers.

Iowa Bank Liquidation Suits Are Filed Here

Two suits in liquidation of the affairs of the Athelstan Bank, of Athelstan, Ia., have been filed in Circuit Court here against B. Turnbull, a resident of Nodaway County. One is brought by G. W. Hook, receiver for the Athelstan Bank, and the other by the same man as receiver for the benefit of the Empire Trust Co. of St. Joseph and the Athelstan Bank.

The amounts sought from Turnbull are $94.36, $663.43, $263.01, $1,135.68, and $1,081.60, on notes, and an overdraft of $83.36.

The first three of the notes were held by the St. Joseph trust company as collateral for a loan of $34,000, of which $24,000 remained due at the time the bank closed its doors on December 7, 1925.

July Clearance

Is Now in Full Swing...
Bigger, Better than ever before.

The generous response to this year's Clearing Sale is most gratifying and encouraging.

Pricings are lower than in many years. You will find values in every one of the many big departments of this store. Values unprecedented, in the big rug section, in the yard goods store, in the women's wearing apparel section, in Millinery, in dainty, cool underthings. Then the big basement store is simply over flowing with the little wanted things for the home.

Note the values in Toiletries. See last Monday's big advertisement for more of the story. Better still, come to the store and see all.

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

At 21—Dr. William H. Welch Was Approaching Fame.

"AT TWENTY-ONE I was a student at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia. This was a year after I had graduated from Yale.

"From Columbia I went to the University of Strassburg, Leipzig—Wilham H. Welch.

Doctor Welch is internationally celebrated as being one of the greatest medical leaders of the age.

For many years he held the chair of professor of pathology at Johns Hopkins, where one of his pupils was Walter Reed, the army officer who discovered that yellow fever was carried by a certain species of mosquito. It was this discovery that made possible the cutting of the Panama canal through the wastes of the Panama neck.

It was Doctor Welch who helped to spread the doctrines of Pasteur and Koch, the latter the man who discovered the tuberculosis germ, and he was one of the first who showed that such diseases as typhoid, malaria and cholera are not spread by the moist air of tropical lands, but by contact, thus antedating Reed's discovery.

At the age of twenty-five Doctor Welch had already written a prize thesis on gonorrhea; three years later he published a pathological paper that attracted wide attention in Europe; at thirty he had distinguished himself in many of the greatest laboratories on the continent, and at thirty-one he revised the fifth edition of the standard "Flint's Practice of Medicine," a task which would be approached in awe by a man twice the age he was then.

From Experience?

Ellnor Glyn said at a Hollywood tea:

"Young girls are too idealistic. They demand perfection. Well, perfection doesn't exist.

"A young girl and her young man rose from a dim seat in a conservatory. The breast of the young man's coat was white with perfumed powder.

"The girl was embarrassed, but he patted her hand and said:

"Never mind, darling; it will soon brush off."

"She burst into despairing sobs.

"Oh," she wailed; "how do you know?"

Alfalfa Center

Cozad, a community of 2,000 persons in central Nebraska, is among the largest alfalfa markets in the United States. Records of carload shipments of alfalfa from Cozad for the last seven years show that from 1,100 to 1,300 cars a year are dispatched. In addition, the stations of Darr and Willow Island, near there, ship from 300 to 500 cars a year. Dawson county, of which Cozad is the capital, leads Nebraska in hay production, while 1925 crop figures show that the Cornhusker state leads the nation in acreage devoted to the crop.—Indianapolis News.

Mean Sneak Thieves

A man calling himself Earl Jackson appealed to the congregation of a Wichita (Kan.) church to pray for his deliverance from evil. After his confession of sin and repentance had brought tears to the eyes of many and a purse of $25 had been taken up for him, while he told of being left an orphan and wandering from place to place, and otherwise held the attention of the worshippers, his partner on the outside looted all the motor cars parked along the street by members of the congregation.

Worth a Long Hunt

A tiny tube containing $800,000 worth of radium disappeared from a St. Paul hospital. It had probably been washed into the sewer. A radium detector was constructed which was attached to electroscopes and then began a long hunt along all sewers leading from the hospital. After weeks of patient search the detector one day indicated radium inside a nine-inch sewer. Workmen dug down and there was the radium tube.—Capper's Weekly.

The Hotel Stenographer

"WHO" is she?" asked the House Detective

"A great-granddaughter of Jim Polk or Jack Adams or one of the other early Presidents," answered the Hotel Stenographer.

"You take much stock in family trees?" asked Kelly.

"Nix." The girl snapped her fingers.

"Who couldn't find a bird of a big league ancestor if they dug back far enough. We all have two parents and four grandparents, and then sixteen and then thirty-two and then sixty-four and so on, so each generation spreads out fan-wise back into the past. In fifty generations one ancestry includes more people than there are now on earth.

"If in all that gang you cannot find one champion heavyweight you are a poor hunter. And for that one grand wow that you can tell everybody about, there are about one hundred butchers, bakers, candlestick makers, rag pickers and horse thieves.

"That dame there carrying her chin so high you'd think she had a bad egg for a breast pin and all because she had one big-gun ancestor. Wonder how many honest washwomen there were among 'em and how many men who lived off the money they made at the tub?"

"Kelly, if I can get by on my own I am satisfied. I am willing to let the good and bad deeds of my ancestors lie silent in their graves. They were all Irish and so they all fought and all loved and I rather suspect some of the men looked on the wine when it was colored and some of the women talked scandalous about their neighbors. I just take it for granted they were nice folks 'cause I'm nice folks myself. That's the safest bet. Anybody who rakes 'round in the dead ashes of the past is likely to find a hot coal and get burned."

Among the NOTABLES

BOOTH TARKINGTON

MANY claim that Booth Tarkington is the greatest living American writer. He was born in Indianapolis, July 29, 1869, went to Exeter academy and finally to Princeton university.

Though he may have intended to become an author from the very beginning, he decided to go in for business, at first, and took a position with an oil company. He began in his twenties to write "The Gentleman from Indiana," which was published when he was thirty years old. The same year his university conferred an A. M. degree on him.

He took up authorship seriously from that time on—so great was his first success. Critics said that he had established a new school of fiction. The first book was followed by "Monsieur Beaucaire," also a great success. From then on his reputation has steadily grown.

More recently, in collaboration, he wrote a play, "The Man From Home," which had a record run in New York and, later, played practically all over the country. William Hodge made his reputation as the homely, wise, unspoiled man from Kokomo.

Then he wrote the Penrod stories, beloved by everyone who has any sympathy for boyhood—stories of the merely average boy and his average adventures, so true to life that grown men find their own boyhood in them and gain a greater sympathy with boyhood while they chuckle over them. He has also written equally wonderful stories of the boy and girl in the half-grown stage of seventeen.

DRY ASPIRANT IN ST. JOSEPH

W. H. MEREDITH, SENATORIAL
CANDIDATE, CONFERS THERE.

WILL MEET COCKRELL

Poplar Bluff Man Still Hopes for Agreement to Eliminate One of Hawes Opponents.

St. Joseph, July 1.—Willis H. Meredith, one of the two dry candidates for the Democratic Senatorial nomination, arrived here today for a conference with political friends and expressed the hope that an agreement would be reached whereby either he or Judge Ewing Cockrell, the other dry candidate, would withdraw from the race so that there might be only one opponent of Harry Hawes of St. Louis, an avowed wet candidate.

Mr. Meredith said he would go to St. Louis Saturday to arrange for a personal conference with Judge Cockrell and said that he hoped this would result in the withdrawal of one of them.

He arrived here this morning from Jefferson City and will leave tomorrow for Clayton where he is to speak tomorrow night.

Mr. Meredith refused to make a formal statement regarding Judge Cockrell's pronouncement in which the latter refused to retire from the race. He said, however, that he approved the attitude of the committee which met in Jefferson City yesterday and urged that the two dry candidates get together in an effort to unite the dry vote.

"The Anti-Saloon League, the most active dry organization in the state, has given me its official endorsement, and most of the dry forces, through their endorsements, are supporting me," Meredith said. "The state W. C. T. U. organization will not give its official support to any candidate, I am told, but Mrs. Nellie Burger, state president, is personally in favor of my campaign."

Jefferson City, July 1.—One of the two dry Democratic candidates for United States senator—Willis H. Meredith of Poplar Bluff, and Judge Ewing Cockrell of Warrensburg—should get out of the race, the committee of ten which met here yesterday relative to withdrawal of one of the candidates, decided last night.

The two candidates were urged by resolution to "get together" and agree upon some plan to determine which should withdraw.

The committee of supporters of the two candidates unanimously adopted a resolution to that effect, it was announced following the end of last night's session. The resolution was introduced by I. R. Kelso, St. Louis, a Meredith supporter.

"Be it resolved," the resolution stated, "that it is the sense of this committee that either Judge Cockrell or Mr. Meredith should withdraw from the race for United States senator in order that their forces may be united. The committee recommends that Judge Cockrell and Mr. Meredith get together and agree upon some plan to determine which should withdraw."

Judge Cockrell, it was reported, favored both himself and Meredith remaining in the race, after it was ascertained no agreement could be reached as to which would withdraw.

The committee overruled such a course, however, it was said, and decided that one of the dry candidates would have to withdraw so that dry Democrats could concentrate on one candidate in an attempt to defeat

Harry B. Hawes of St. Louis, wet senatorial candidate.

It was the opinion of the committee it is understood, that if both Cockrell and Meredith remain in the race the vote will be split, which will result in almost certain nomination for Hawes.

Cockrell Says He'll Stay In.

Judge Ewing Cockrell of Warrensburg, one of the two dry Democratic candidates in the race for United States senator, "will continue in the race to the end." A statement to this effect was issued after midnight last night by Judge Cockrell.

Judge Cockrell's statement said: "I do not understand the situation and do not know all the facts. I have learned this much. Three months after I began running for senator, somebody in the Anti-Saloon League urged Mr. Meredith to run. He did so."

"June 7, 1926, Mr. Meredith wrote the Anti-Saloon League president: 'The fact is that with fine fishing in the Missouri Ozark streams and the hot sun boiling down on the hills and valleys of Missouri, if I consulted my wishes and personal ease, I would much prefer to let some other dry make this race for the senate, and if Judge Cockrell is satisfactory to your organization, as he seems to be to Mrs. Burger and the W. C. T. U., it will not take you long to have this matter cleared up and have only one candidate in the field against Hawes.'"

"The Anti-Saloon League president did not accept this plan offer of Mr. Meredith to withdraw at their request. Why I do not know. He had said they wanted to get one of us out and would gladly back either one that remained."

"Now he would much prefer to let some other dry make this race," the statement asserted, "but somebody wants him. Who, I do not know."

Judge Cockrell said he had been told at the Anti-Saloon League headquarters in St. Louis that Meredith was no longer a member of its governing body, since he was a candidate for office. But the official paper of the organization, he said, listed Meredith in this week's issue.

Judge Cockrell's statement says he knows Meredith ran for prosecuting attorney of Butler County in 1904 and was defeated; that he ran for the legislature in 1906 and was defeated; that he ran for state senator in 1908 and was defeated; that in 1918 he ran for circuit judge and was defeated; that he ran for attorney general in 1920 and met defeat; and that in 1924 he ran for attorney general again and again was defeated.

"Now he would much prefer to let some other dry make this race," the statement asserted, "but somebody wants him in. Who, I do not know."

"The immense amount of information I have from all over the state and from all sources, including Mr. Meredith's own friends, is such that it would be an absolute wrong and a betrayal of Democracy, in my opinion, for me to give up my campaign against Mr. Hawes in favor of the man who 'much prefers not to make this race,' but whom these gentlemen want to make it."

League Indorses Meredith.

St. Louis, July 1.—The Rev. Parker Shields, superintendent of the Missouri Anti-Saloon League, announced last night that the league headquarters committee and a special committee representing the state board of directors had indorsed the candidacy of Willis H. Meredith for the Democratic nomination for United States senator.

The indorsement was interpreted in some quarters as a move to strip Judge Ewing Cockrell of his dry support in favor of Meredith in a concerted drive to defeat Harry B. Hawes, an avowed wet.

BRIGHT HOPES FOR BUSINESS

GLOWING PROSPECTS FOR NA-TIONAL PROSPERITY.

MANY RECORDS MADE

Economic Conditions More Sound. Industrial Leaders Believe—Exports
More Than 4 Billion Dollars.

Washington, July 1.—The fiscal new year was celebrated by the United States and thousands of commercial and industrial corporations throughout the country today by glowing prospects for a continuance of prosperity which has established numerous records during the last year.

Corporations operating on a calendar family, at Shenandoah, Ia.

year basis passed the first half of 1926 with more sound conditions and brighter promises for the future.

Among the fiscal year indications of good times were set forth as follows: Estimated exports of $4,760,000,000 and imports of $4,440,000,000. Estimated gold exports of $116,000,000 and imports of $195,000,000. Government receipts of $3,960,000,000, about 182,000,000 more than the last fiscal year.

Income tax receipts of $1,980,000,000 or $200,000,000 more than last year.

Customs receipts of $580,000,000, exceeding last year by $33,000,000.

Figures for the last six months disclose estimated domestic capital issues of $3,000,000,000, compared to $5,196,000,000.

no doubt about it,
P. A.
is great
makin's

THE instant you open a tidy red tin or a toppy red bag of Prince Albert and get a whiff of that real tobacco, you know you are in for some grand cigarette-sessions. Yes, indeed. You take out a makin's paper and proceed to roll a cigarette that's a sure-fire winner.

Because P. A. is crimp-cut and doesn't flutter all around, it rolls easier. It burns better for the same reason. And then the big thrill . . . that glorious taste! No other home-rolled cigarette can hold a candle to that. Cool. Sweet. Fragrant. Every inch a smoke!

Morning to midnight, you'll roll 'em and smoke 'em. Because every wonderful puff invites another. Your taste just never wearies of this mild, mellow tobacco—good old P. A. Try this better cigarette tobacco today. It will be a smoke-experience, for a fact.

If you have a pipe and want to see how much pleasure it can deliver, tamp a load of Prince Albert into the bowl. Men who thought they were all set on a smoke-program have followed this formula and have become converts overnight. No other tobacco is like this. Men.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins and toppy red bags. And always with every bit of bite and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Truth Truly Is Stranger Than Fiction, Says Colorado Congressman, Telling Stories of Old Days That Even He Finds Hard to Believe

Frozen to death in blizzard on July 4

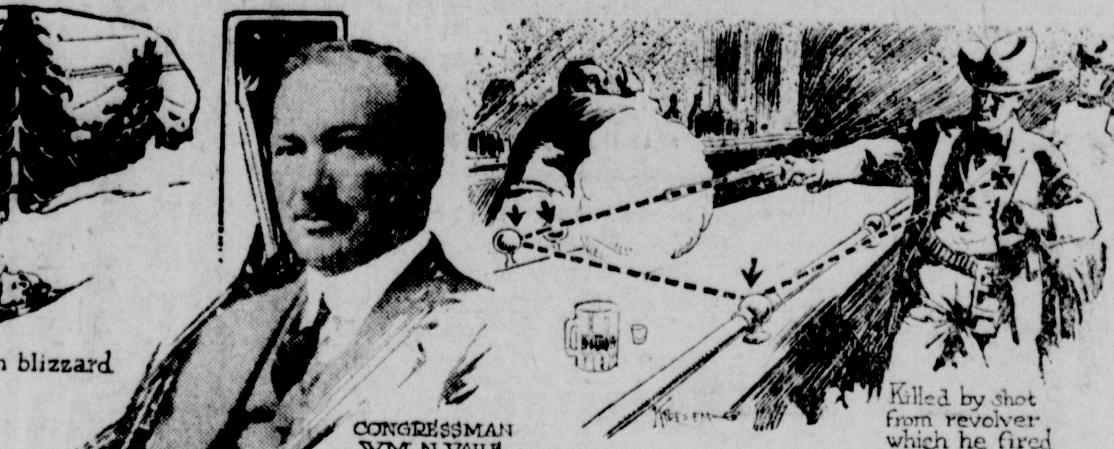

Washington, July 1.—Fact is so all-fired much stranger than fiction that often it has to be diluted or avoided entirely if the story teller's yarn is to sound convincing.

This somewhat shopworn truth is the practical hard luck of Congressman William N. Vaile of Denver, Colo. He takes his relaxation from politics by writing short stories and novels of the western scene. He finds a rich ore of literary material in the gulches, mountain peaks and mining towns of his district, but many of the old legends, Vaile believes, are too good to sound true.

Sees Man Frozen.

"Take, for instance, the case of a man standing in his office doorway in his shirt sleeves on the Fourth of July and watching another freeze to death," says Vaile.

"It would take a lot of qualifying and explaining to use that in a story. But it actually happened, and the man who saw the sight was John R. Smith, a Denver lawyer and friend of mine. It was up at Westcliff, Colo., where the mountains tower very sharply above the town and one could easily see what is going on at a mile greater altitude.

"On this warm summer afternoon Smith saw two men on the mountain side overtaken by a storm. One kept to the road, the other was confused in the snow squall. They sent up rescuers from the town, and when they got to the second man he was frozen.

"The exploits of expert marksmen and the freaks of accidental shots are even more incredible. In one of my stories I hinge the plot on a remarkable pistol shot. But there was my tentmate, Jack Dahlene, when I was a lieutenant in the national guard on the Mexican border. He would set the sling of his rifle firmly around his arm and fire one or two shots into the bullseye of a target.

Bullseyes, Blindfolded.

"Then he would allow you to blindfold him by holding a card back of the sights on his rifle, so he could not see either the sights or the target. And he would fire the rest of his clip, hitting the bullseye every time. You would turn up your nose at such steadiness if you met it in fiction, wouldn't you?"

"One of the best of all is the famous boomerang bullet which actually went its course in a Denver saloon. It missed the man it was aimed at and killed the one who fired it. It took a billiard ball course, ricocheting from two onyx balls and the brass bar rail and back to the heart of its author.

"The old-time mining camps and tough frontier towns developed characters, too, which bordered on the incredible. There was Jack Maynard in Denver. He was a sort of king of the underworld and had a big diamond set in his front teeth, but he died broke.

Chapters in the authentic political history of his state are colorful enough. Vaile points out, to discourage any romancer from attempting to retouch them. But they would furnish backgrounds, if one can imagine fiction gay enough to harmonize with the setting.

A Fiery Governor.

"One of my favorite stories of early Colorado is about Governor Waite's attempt to oust the fire and police board in Denver," he says. "The board wouldn't submit, and the governor called out a battery of artillery and trained it on the city hall to carry war directly upon the enemy.

"Then there's the story of the Colorado troops early in the Civil War who captured quite a large number of Confederates in border fighting. They brought them home and paroled them upon condition that they stay there and fight the Indians while the Unionists were away in the army. And that is how many of our best southern families got there.

"But for weird characters and incidents that sound incredible, of course, one doesn't have to seek any farther than Congress, right here."

MUCH WASTE IN DUPLICATION

Missouri Could Save Money by Consolidation, Association for Economy in Expenditures Finds.

TOO MANY OFFICERS

STATE DEPARTMENTS OVERLAP IN DUTIES.

St. Louis, July 1.—The Missouri State government is clogged with 124 various departments, boards, bureaus, commissions and other agencies of administration, according to a report made yesterday to the Missouri Association for Economy in Public Expenditures. The list includes the seven departments headed by elective officials. In addition to these, however, are 117 various agencies for offices which are assigned some function under the law.

Some agencies in the list report to the governor, others are assigned to the secretary of state, a few are under charge of different boards, while some are ex officio and still others have spent their usefulness and are ignored both by officials and the public.

Investigation was made by the association in its field work in order to show what overlapping and duplications of functions are enforced under the present system, and to demonstrate the need for consolidation of the various agencies and bureaus into a limited number of departments. It is apparent from the large number of conflicting agencies that consolidation under a limited number of department heads will result in more efficient and economic government.

Elmer Donnell, general chairman of the association, in announcing the result of the investigation, called attention to the fact that Illinois, with 125 such agencies in 1917, reorganized under a civil administrative code with 11 departments. The number became so top-heavy in Ohio with 125 agencies, that reorganization was accomplished under 7 departments in 1921. Pennsylvania, in 1923, found conditions intolerable with 188 varied agencies and consolidated them into 17. Other states adopting the administrative code also have found that government operates more efficiently and economically after the new system had been established, with a budget system and central purchasing for all departments and institutions, than had been possible under the old method.

In order to provide for the same efficient system that has been inaugurated in those states, the Missouri Association for Economy in Public Expenditures authorized preparation of legislation calling for a reorganization of the 117 boards into a limited number of departments, installing an executive budget with uniform accounting for all offices of the state government, and for a system of central purchasing for all departments and institutions. The measures will be presented to the legislature at its next session in January.

A survey of the 117 varied agencies demonstrates the lack of cooperation and harmony in management of the various bureaus. Most boards and commissions are appointed for terms of four years, but some are overlapping with three, five and six year memberships. Chairman Donnell declared that the result prevents harmonious administration. The legislation which is being prepared by the association provides for harmonizing all functions so that authority of heads of departments will be definite. Under such a system, he says, the people will know who to hold responsible. He also calls attention to the fact that adoption of the plan will lighten the burden of the taxpayer at the same time that it establishes greater efficiency and economy.

Farmer Plows 46 Acres in 2 Hours

Hopkins and vicinity is credited with producing records of various kinds that are hard to beat—in fact, the records made are seldom tied.

Now comes Rant Holmes, one of our west side farmers, telling of the plowing of 46 acres of corn in just two hours.

Myrl Simpson, another west sider, recently suffered a broken arm when a horse kicked him, so last Wednesday thirty-one of his thoughtful neighbors went in with as many teams and in just 120 minutes had his forty-six acres of corn all plowed.—Hopkins Journal.

U. S. Policy Toward Mexico

Denounced In Resolutions

Of Women's Labor Conference

Huddersfield, England, July 1.—Exploitation of nations by alien capital and international combines and trusts formed to further alien interests in countries were denounced here today in reports submitted to the final session of the National Women's Labor Conference.

Referring to exploitation by foreign capitalists the report stated, "This method is exemplified by the United States in Mexico, where the investment of capital for exploiting the mineral wealth of Mexico in oil and precious metals has led to constant political pressure being directed upon that country by the United States in the interests of her capitalists and against the interests and will, of the Mexican people themselves.

"China has suffered in a similar way from Japanese and Western European control, where political control has directly resulted from capitalist exploitation."

The report reviewed recent cases of "Economic Imperialism," declaring the best examples to be those of England and India and later France and Italy in North Africa.

The report pointed to the international "trust" as the most modern form of imperialistic control and referred to the Anglo-American monopoly of the frozen beef production of South America, as an instance.

Another instance of "Economic Imperialism" which the report pointed to is that of the shipping of the Pacific.

"The lumber group in American began by exporting timber across the Pacific to China. They found it profitable to send it in their own ships. They needed cargo for the return journey. And so through the international operations in supplying timber, grows the great Pacific Dollar fleet of ships, next come the development of the lead mines in China and of the feather trade to give return cargoes. Thus from the production and export of lumber in America, there grows up the control of shipping in the Pacific, of lead mining and feather collection in China."

The report then declared that with the profits gained by capital in one country workers demands in another country are fought, causing rivalry and bitterness between people.

Resolutions submitted on the subject called for the "right of every nation to exist and to be free from exploitation on the part of other nations" and that the Labor Party "resist all attempts to link the Labor Movement to the policy of British Imperialism in schemes for Empire development and emigration."

Another resolution called for "the annulment of the Versailles Treaty and the Dawes Plan; and the abandonment of extraterritorial claims in Turkey, Persia and China, the voting against all capitalist armaments and for a workers' alliance with Russia."

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Albers of Los Angeles, Cal., will arrive in Maryville tonight to spend several weeks with the latter's parent's, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Allen. They have been visiting at points in Illinois and are en route home. Mrs. Albers was formerly Miss Eudora Allen.

AMERICAN YOUTH CANDIDATE

Miss Helen F. Dodge of Pennsylvania, holder of a Carnegie medal for heroism, has been nominated as a candidate for the American Youth Award established by the directors of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, which is to be held in Philadelphia from June 1 to December 1 in celebration of 150 years of American Independence. Miss Dodge, the daughter of George H. Dodge of 5944 Walton avenue, Philadelphia, jumped into the Toms River at Ocean Gate, N. J., fully dressed, and, while having use of only one arm, saved the life of a drowning girl.

St. Louis Recorder Equips Cupid's Bower to Encourage Prospective Brides and Grooms

(This is one of a series of articles to be written for the Democrat Forum and Tribune by A. Keshen, a member of the class in special correspondence of the Missouri School of Journalism, which is visiting various points of interest in the state).

St. Louis, July 1.—A veritable Cupid's bower is what confronts the prospective bride and bridegroom as they enter the St. Louis Marriage License Bureau. G. H. Ruedi, chief clerk of the bureau, is a proponent of the theory that suggestive surroundings would help smooth the path of the newlyweds as they begin their matrimonial venture.

He has equipped his office with all the elegance and comfort of an ideal home. Hanging over the entrance to the door is a Cupid's dart. Curtains of creamy lace and drapings of heavy blue velvet trimmed in gold, contribute to produce an attractive effect. A fountain is located in the center of the office.

The furniture consists of luxurious divans and chairs. The side walls are of terra cotta in three shades of brown. Hanging lamps of bronze cast a soft golden light over the entire scene. In short, it is hoped to produce an effect that will inspire the ambitious couple to create their own ideal "nest."

The idea of thus fitting up what is considered the most attractive marriage license bureau in America, belongs to William L. Tamme, recorder of deeds, under whose supervision the bureau operates. Two years ago, Mr. Tamme conceived and executed his plans with marked success.

To see the many couples waiting in line for their licenses is to discount the pessimistic theory that our restless, jazz-loving society tends to neglect the marriage vow. The prospective groom, serious and nervous, is fully impressed with the gravity of the situation. At his side his future wife is giggling, talking, talking or smiling in anticipation. The quiet, well-mannered clerk handles the details promptly and efficiently. The line slowly decreases.

Since 1806, every marriage has been carefully recorded and indexed in this office. The application for license and marriage certificates have been filed together since 1881 when the new city charter went into effect. This number has now grown to 295,000.

Many Missourians are not aware that their state is one of the most witnesses are necessary for a license application or at the wedding. A justice of the peace is at the marriage bureau and is ready to marry the couple as soon as they secure their license. The proper solution for this problem, according to Mr. Ruedi, is a national uniformity of marriage laws.

THE MAN IS FOUND.

Mr. Diogenes might as well lay aside his lantern for an honest man has been found. Not only an honest man but a big hearted, liberal man. Jeremiah Smith is his name, a name that is commonplace enough but not attached to a commonplace man.

He is a distinguished lawyer and economist from Boston. Two years ago he was appointed League of Nations commissioner to go to Hungary and try to untangle its financial affairs. He worked hard for two years and on June 5, last, was able to report that the affairs of Hungary were in a satisfactory condition so far as system and future prospects are concerned. His work concluded, he was tendered a check by the Hungarian government for $100,000 for his two years work but he declined it. He asked the government to give it to the poor of Hungary. When the astonished prime minister assured him the check had been passed for payment and could not be recalled on the government records, he promptly said, "reenter it as a gift from the American people."

Mr. Smith is not a wealthy man as the term is now understood but he insisted that all the compensation he wanted for his great work "is the appreciation and friendship of the Hungarian people." It is as refreshing as it is rare to read of a man in this commercial, money-grabbing age, refusing real money after it has been conscientiously earned. Mr. Smith has done a great work for the Hungarian people who were in hopeless confusion at the close of the war.

The Smith family is large and contains many characters of note, but his is one name that should go down in history as a man among men.

THE STITCH IN TIME.

Attorney General Gentry made a mighty good suggestion to Mexico Kiwanians in an address Monday. He said that parents of today should seek to build character in the youth so that laws will be respected because they are right and not merely because they are laws with a penalty.

"A finer illustration of the ounce of prevention as compared with the pound of cure was never needed than today," said he. Children should be taught that law is a friendly thing enacted with the purpose of protecting the rights and property of those who want to be good citizens and not merely something to be afraid of. Parents in this day of freedom of action and looseness of thought, should take a few minutes off from their autos and other diversions and give their children more instruction in the fundamentals of good citizenship and thus add to their future happiness and perhaps save them from future grief.

More boys and girls turn out badly through a misconception of citizenship and the rightful relations of men and because they are inherently bad and, if they are started right, they are more likely to finish right.

There's nothing like the higher education to teach a young fellow new ways of spending money.

"War is a habit; peace also is a habit," says a minister. But the latter habit is easier to break.

Maybe the reason the tenth or fifteenth child so often succeeds in life is that parents by that time have got tired of bossing the life out of the children.

It would be well worth our while to spend $85,000,000 on military airships if thereby we could prevent war, but it may be recalled that in lecturing European nations, we have frequently assured them that the better arm-

What Other Editors Say

THE SENATE ALWAYS UNTANGLES

In the last days of every session of congress a jam of legislative business develops. The outlook for straightening out the jam and getting things in shape for adjournment always becomes hopeless. Then there are a few conferences, and a statement emerges that adjournment will be on a certain day. Usually the first statement is greeted with screams from a few members who are dissatisfied with the situation. They will talk till the crack of doom, they say, or until they get action on certain bills in which they are interested.

A few days later the leaders have all the malcontents into line, either by giving them what they want or by subduing them. Then comes another and more definite statement, and on the day appointed congress placidly adjourns as if it never had contemplated any other course.

Back in the '90s, during a terrific fight for the repeal of the silver purchase act, a southern senator sent word to President Cleveland that he would refuse to let measure go through and would hold congress in session until it froze over. "Go back and tell Senator So-and-So," the President replied to the messenger, "that hell will freeze over precisely at 3 o'clock next Friday afternoon." And it did.

Long experience has taught the country that the senate never gets so tangled up that it cannot untangle when it wants to.—Kansas City Times.

INFLUENCE OF FASHIONS.

Fashions often have a profound effect for good or for evil upon commerce and manufacture. An ornamental feather manufacturing company in Berlin has just gone into bankruptcy, and the explanation given was that the women who bob their hair wear hats too small for decoration with feathers; hence the falling off in the trade. Little hope for the German concern was held out for when the court asked whether a reversion might not tide the company over its difficulties until the style changed the reply was that "the bob-bed hair craze is just starting." That can hardly be said for the style in this country. It might be thought that the narrow skirts now in vogue would check the manufacture and sale of dress fabrics; but the actual effect has been otherwise. The only difference is that two frocks are bought today whereas one sufficed in the days of flowing skirts and trains.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

A Chicago physician says thinking will prolong life; which seems to place advanced age out of reach of most of us.—K. C. Star.

EDITORIAL RESPONSIBILITY.

To weigh the acts of men and judge the motives behind the acts, to consider private rights and public policies, distinguishing between the trivial and the important, between the claims of the unworthy, and the unclaimed rights of the worthy, between the fallacies of the temperamental enthusiast and the vicious pronouncements of the demagogue on the one hand and the solid foundation of truth on the other; to look forward as well as backward and always upward, prudently always and as tranquilly as may be; these are the duties that hourly lie in the path of the conscientious editor.

To be able to separate jealousies, human inconsistencies and personal prejudices inborn from the right as it may appear to him to be; to conquer private ambition that would unworthily affect his efforts for the public welfare; these are gifts and graces devoutly to be prayed for by everyone entrusted with the preparation of messages to the minds and hearts of the people.

The editor who may unworthily use his power and place may debauch the minds, the hopes and the ambitions of those who read his words. He may raise animosities between neighbors, spread discord, undermine public confidence. He may so mingle truths and half truths and he may so prey upon the vain imaginings of unworthy souls that the very foundation of the state may be disrupted. Contrariwise, he may clarify the public mind by a proper assemblage of facts and by presenting proper conclusions therefrom. He can caution the unwary, counsel the indiscreet, teach the truth to the open minded and denounce the perpetrators of evil and those who would corrupt private and public life. The editor must choose. He cannot serve two masters. He cannot shirk responsibility. The consequent effect of what he writes from day to day and presents for the information and guidance of the people cannot be blotted out.

And withal to have joy in the doing, that the workmanship may attain that degree of perfection only attained by those who love their work. Then shall power be added to the words fitly written, and then, as it was with Paul to the Romans, his calling shall be magnified.—Frank O. Edgecombe, President, National Editorial Association.

Varicose Veins Reduced or Money Back, Say Druggists

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results.

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to cure can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunions you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal. Moone's Emerald Oil is also a marvelous healing agent. One application for instance stops the itching of eczema, and a few applications cause the eruptions to dry up, scale off and completely disappear. It is equally as effective in barber's itch, salt rheum, redness and inflammatory skin trouble.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or to get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you. All Druggists sell lots of it.

Baby's Milk Keeps Safely in Servel

"What About My Milk" Think of Baby

Your Luncheons—
Your Dinners—

The milk you select so carefully for that precious little one of yours—are you prepared to insure its wholesome, pure quality after it reaches your home?

If you have electric service in your home it is easy to make certain that baby's milk is always fresh and sweet—free from deadly bacteria and unwholesome impurities.

Real refrigeration is now available in every electrically wired home—refrigeration that maintains true preserving temperatures—so low that decomposition and bacterial development are prevented—not merely retarded, as in old-fashioned ice boxes.

You simply attach the plug on Servel to one of your light sockets in the home.

These functions when you "put your best foot forward." When your turn to entertain comes, will it be "just another party" or will the affair be long remembered and praised for its originality?

If you have a Servel in your home your luncheon or dinner may be different—distinctive.

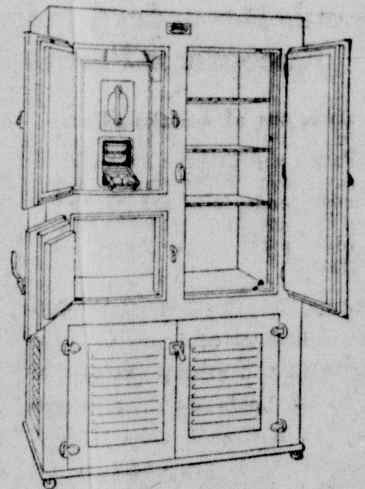

You may serve delicious frozen salad—a mould of frozen jello with a rose embedded in the mould—parfaits—ice creams—frozen custards—iced beverages.

All are made in the freezing compartment of your Servel.

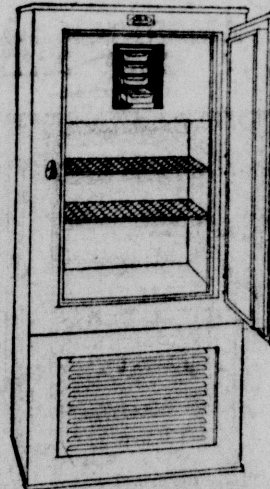

A Model For Every Home

Servel have an outstanding line of refrigerators with built-in Servel refrigerating units designed to suit all requirements—from the smallest apartment to the largest residence.

The BOBCAT

BY HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Big Tim Burke, real estate operator, and known to his associates as a land pirate, discharges one of his young lieutenants called Pol Gaillard, because he is irritated by the latter's aloofness of appearance, and nonchalant manner. Pol learns that his ex-boss covets a desirable piece of Long Island property owned by Professor Husted and that another land shark, Michael Cadrigan, is after the same bit of land. Cadrigan lives on the shore of Long Island sound with his step-daughter, Veronica. His estate is across the bay from that of Professor Husted. The old professor lives like a hermit, and Veronica is his only visitor. Cadrigan asks Veronica to discontinue calling on the old man, intimating that the professor's enemies may harm her. Noticing a sloop anchored opposite the house, Veronica suggests to her step-father that they call on the owner. They are invited on board, and their host introduces himself as Pol Gaillard, posing as an itinerant poet and artist. That night Pol rows over to the Husted house and while he is ashore his sloop is cut adrift. He rows over to his boat and releases his second anchor. The next night he and Veronica meet at Professor Husted's house. On leaving Pol finds his boat has been scuttled. The professor invites Pol to be his guest and he accepts, although he is able to salvage his boat.

INSTALLMENT XXII. RED TAPE.

Pol released Mrs. Tate, she stepped back, looked at him, and laughed. Pol's clear eyes sparkled at her, no sleepiness to be discovered in them.

"I think," she said, "that you are very competent and very sweet."

"I hope you don't also think this is my customary way of getting what I want."

"No," said Pol. "Partly because you had already got what you wanted, but mostly just because—"

"I would go a long way to keep that point of land from being spoiled," said Mrs. Tate, "and yet I don't want Cadrigan to get control of it."

"Why not?"

"Well, I'll put it differently and say I would rather have somebody else with the right ideas for its development get hold of it. Cadrigan couldn't stand looking over there and seeing it developed according to the ideas of another. He told me once that if that were to happen he should want to sell out and go somewhere else. That's what I want him to do."

"You don't like him as a neighbor?"

"No, nor as an individual. I can't find anybody does. I'm rather a sensitive person, and I feel a menace about Cadrigan. Besides, I think he wants to marry me."

"The infernal pirate!" said Pol.

"You know the right answers, don't you, Mr. Gaillard? The obvious banal remark would be, 'Nobody can blame him for that.'"

"Not from your most recent conquest, Mrs. Tate."

"I am afraid you are a trained courier, or, what is worse, a natural one. But as I must be five or six years your senior you are quite safe with me."

"I am glad I cannot honestly say I feel such an undesirable security. I could not do that if you were twenty years my senior, instead of the five or six that I am unable to admit."

"But you just told me I could trust you."

"I told you the truth, but I did not boast my own invulnerability. I fear you have the combination to my safe. However, there is no marketable security inside it."

"The chances are I should want to keep it for myself."

Pol bowed. "In that case, please don't lose it, Mrs. Tate."

"Where did you learn to make love?"

"Here," said Pol.

"You kissed Veronica?"

"That kiss was a treatment. This one a treaty. I might also say, a treat."

"Call it a trust, Mr. Gaillard. What do you think of Cadrigan, yourself?"

"Since I am wearing his clothes and about to accept his hospitality I shall not damn him with faint praise. Merely damn him."

"Will you take luncheon with me tomorrow and look over my grounds?"

"With the greatest pleasure, Mrs. Tate."

"Then au revoir." She offered her hand. Pol took it, and, meeting with no resistance, drew her gently toward him. "Lest you forget, Mrs. Tate, Gordon rouge—" and he affixed two narrow bands of this red tape.

Pol walked slowly back to the Cadrigan house, humming a little old French song. "I'll enait une bergere, eh, qui gardait ses montons, ron ron."

Cadrigan offered him a cocktail. "I hope you did not neglect the opportunity of making a good impression on my charming neighbor."

"I did my best, Mr. Cadrigan."

"From what I have seen of your methods that should be worth something," Cadrigan said dryly. "Mrs. Tate is a bit flippant of speech, but she has a level head. Our interests go along together. Now, if you could find a way to further them we should see that it was made well worth your while. I am talking money."

"That thing talks for itself."

The realtor gave his grim smile. "I get you, Mr. Gaillard. But like most public speakers it is the custom to make some sort of introduction. From a social standpoint this is not the time and place for talking business, but I have found in my experience that the only voice that can be lifted without rebuke on any and all occasions is that of money. Provided, of course, it says something to the listener's interest."

"Your observation is exact."

Cadrigan leaned forward. "What I have to say can be put in a nutshell."

"The shell of this nut is wide open, Mr. Cadrigan."

"Then here is the proposition. If you can persuade Professor Husted to part with a block of his property you will be doing something in the attempt of which all others have failed. But miracles do sometimes happen."

"No more do I, but for the lack of a better word let us call them that. If David, instead of killing Goliath with a sling, had thrown him over his shoulder and run off with him it would have been regarded as a miracle."

"But he didn't."

"No. And if you were to persuade Mr. Husted to sell I should regard it as a miracle, but that has not been done."

"You are straining this nutshell."

"Then here is the point. I am willing to bet on a miracle. I will pay you one thousand dollars tomorrow for your verbal agreement to try to persuade Professor Husted to sell you all or part of property over four acres and your written agreement to transfer the same to me at an increase of twenty per cent on what you pay him for it, provided that amount does not exceed the present tax valuation by more than 100 per cent."

"You are paying a compliment not only to my ability but to my honesty."

"I have faith in both. If you were to tell me later that you had done your best and failed I would believe you and make no reproach."

Pol rose and bowed. "It is not for me to say that you are right, so I shall merely remark with all due modesty that I think you are, but I shall have to decline your offer for that reason."

Cadrigan's face hardened. "And what is in the way?"

"My promise to Professor Husted, sir. When he kindly offered me his hospitality it was with my agreement to avoid all mention of his land and his preference for living alone upon it. He said the topic was distasteful to him."

"I gave him my word that I should respect his wish. Of course, if he chose to introduce the topic himself I am at liberty to discuss it with him."

Cadrigan's face cleared. "Now you are even more honest and more able than I had thought. My offer stands."

"And so does my declining of it. I could not accept it with honor. So far, everything that Professor Husted has said on the subject is in support of his present sentiment."

"Which proves he is weakening. Otherwise he would not discuss it at all. I will raise my retainer to five thousand, and in cash, payable tomorrow."

"Nobody can call you a piker, Mr. Cadrigan."

"Nobody ever has. They prefer such words as 'robber' and 'assassin.' So far I happen to be neither, but can never tell in these days of disorder. Perhaps my offer may strike you as lacking in business sense."

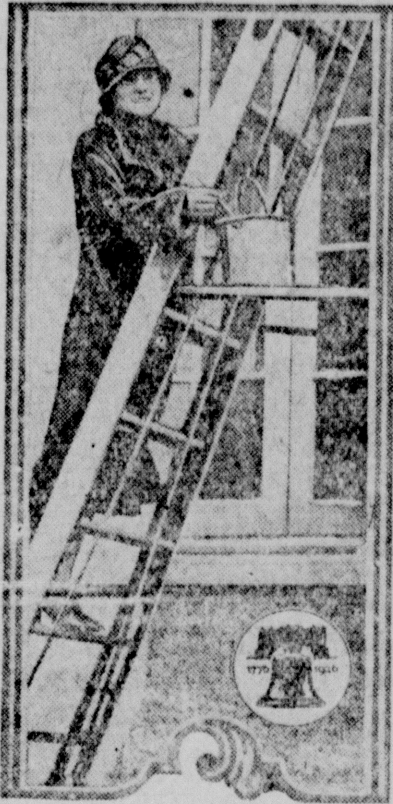

"On the contrary, it shows uncommon acumen, sir. In offering me five thousand dollars merely on my verbal promise to try my best you reason that if I am really honest I will keep my word with you, and that if I am dishonest I will not keep my promise to Professor Husted, but do my best to trick or cajole him into parting with as much of his shore acreage as I could secure."

"You are penetrating, Mr. Gaillard. A fine business man is lost in you."

"I am afraid you will change your mind about that when I tell you I cannot see my way to accept your offer."

Pol rose and bowed. "It is not for me to say that you are right, so I shall merely remark with all due modesty that I think you are, but I shall have to decline your offer for that reason."

U. S. Gift of Dolls to Be Sent to Japan

Washington, July 1.—Bearing the good will and friendship of American youngsters for the children of Japan, thousands of dolls will be sent to that country by the Committee on World Friendship Among Children of the Commission on International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of America, to take part in the Japanese Festival of Dolls on March 5th next.

On this festival day in Japan every family, rich and poor, brings out its ancestral dolls for the inspection and pleasure of all visitors.

It is the hope of the sponsors of this gift of dolls not only that goodwill may be fostered between Japanese and American children, but that the girls of this country may also learn something of Japan's love for children and home.

Elbert Shupe Has Good Corn.

Elbert Shupe, well known farmer who lives near Stanberry, has a fine crop of corn this year. Mr. Shupe lived in Nodaway County for more than twenty years, and while he thinks Gentry county is "all right," he likes to get back once in a while to see neighbors and friends.

Smarter Than Samson

You remember Samson's haircut which proved fatal. That bit of his story came near repeating itself in the case of Governor Elzard of Aguacalientes, Mex. He was proud of his magnificent beard but his enemies tried to put up a job on him and persuade him that he would be even better looking without it. They expected to subsidize a barber, who would cut the governor's throat while pretending to shave off his beard. However, that beard had been the pride of the governor's life and he refused to have it removed and so probably saved himself from removal along with his whiskers.—Capper's Weekly.

Just the Same

Musky love scenes are as popular with House Peters as the income tax with the average man.

"But when a man's in love everything looks different to him," patiently explained Director Lynn Reynolds, agent a scene they were about to take.

"Sure," admitted Peters, "and it's the same way when he knocks his head against a lamp post."

"All right," retorted Lynn. "Act that way and the scene ought to be good."—Los Angeles Times.

Visitors at Highbarger Home.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Shupe and daughter,

Grace, of Stanberry, were Maryville visitors Sunday and while here were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Highbarger. They also visited Mrs. Henry Stapler, a distant relative, who is very ill at her home on West Third street.

Other visitors at the Highbarger home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moore of Wilcox and their daughter, Miss Evelyn Moore, who is home on a visit from Los Angeles, Cal., where she was graduated from high school this spring. Mr. Moore is section foreman at Wilcox.

Announcement of Intention to Continue the Practice of Dentistry in Maryville

So many of my friends in Maryville and Nodaway County have expressed the desire for me to continue to practice dentistry here that I have decided to do so.

Accordingly, I have a newly decorated and equipped office for the use of my friends and patrons and with the kind of service which has characterized my practice throughout the years, I shall hope for no more than my just portion of work in my line. I feel that the public is so familiar with my qualifications as a dental craftsman that no mention need be made of them here.

I am now ready to resume practice following the break which was made necessary during the modernizing of my office and I shall hope to be numbered among the dentists of Maryville for many years to come if the demands for my services seem to justify it.

Hogs and Cattle Are Scarce, Says Holker

But Hopkins Farmer Expects More in Feedlots This Fall.—Sells Yearlings at $9.50.

One of the satisfactory sales of the St. Joseph livestock market Wednesday, according to the Stockyards Daily Journal, was that of eighteen head of mixed yearlings that crossed the scales at $9.50. They were of good quality and weighed 558 pounds a head. Joseph Holker of Hopkins was the owner of the yearlings and they were of his own feeding.

Mr. Holker said the drove was fed on a ration of corn and red clover hay and developed at a very good and pleasing gain.

"The feedlots in our section seem to be pretty well thinned out for this time of the year, but with the prospect of a good corn crop I think feeders again will stock up on hogs and cattle in the fall," Mr. Holker was quoted as saying. "Spring pigs did not do well in some cases while in others they did fine, he continued. 'I noticed that the sows that did not farrow until late did much better and had better litters than those that farrowed earlier. There was quite a number of the sows and pigs that were sick and they did not do so well. However I was one of the lucky ones whose sows did not farrow until late and I had fine luck with my pigs.'"

Ingram and Thompson, also of Nodaway County, sold fifteen head of 848-pound mixed yearlings Tuesday at $9.40, and Ben Mendenhall, another Nodaway Countian, sold nineteen head of mixed steers and heifers that averaged 550 pounds each and brought $9.60.

Other market visitors yesterday were C. C. Rice, Pickering; J. Milan Shell, Wilcox; and F. N. Martin, Clearmont.

AUDREY

AUDREY is closely allied with Ethel. Both signify "noble threatener," since they have their origin with the Anglo-Saxon feminine name Etheldred or Aethelthryth, which in turn comes from the German Edithrud, noble maiden.

The first Audrey of note was the Anglo-Saxon Saint Audrey. She was in reality Queen Aethelthryth; who was rather an unsuccessful wife and retired to a monastery, later being canonized as St. Etheldreda. She was revered as St. Audrey and many fairs are given in her honor by the peasantry. It is said that the garish little articles sold at these fairs have given rise to the term "tawdry."

Because of her saintly reputation, the name of Audrey reached a high estate of popularity in England and has never ceased to be in common usage. Particularly of late has it been revived and set to rival its counterpart, Ethel. Addy, which is commonly believed to be the contraction of Adelaide, is really the Devonian diminutive for Audrey.

The agate is Audrey's talismanic gem. It is believed to have the power to draw success and good fortune to its wearer, and to guard her from all harm. Monday is her lucky day and 4 her lucky number.

BLOOD CIRCULATION

A Cool Temperature, Like Coffee, Is Stimulating, But a Heavy Dinner or a Warm Room Will Bring on Drowsiness.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator From New York.

Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Why do people get sleepy when they ought to stay awake? It is a good thing to be sleepy at the right time, but it is embarrassing to be sleepy at a time of day when you should be wide-awake. It looks ridiculous if you nod in your chair and nearly break your neck when you actually drop into slumber. I saw a Senator sound asleep at his desk in Washington the other day. He appeared very sheepish when he woke up and realized what had happened.

Scientists argue a lot over what causes sleep. They are not sure whether it is due to lessened blood in the brain, or to the effect of some agent generated in the body and capable of a narcotic effect on the brain and nervous system.

There can be no doubt that the circulation of the blood is related to the production of sleep. Strong coffee or other stimulant in the right amount will send the heart to pumping, causing the blood to go bounding on its way to the brain. Then the desire for sleep disappears.

You have a big dinner in delightful company and then go home to read or write. To your despair you find the words running together and the stuff you are trying to write is a stupid mess. The blood is busy digesting the food and your brain is in a muddle. There is nothing left but to go to bed and submit to your sleep impulses.

Because you are sleepy doesn't always mean that you are tired. You may nod and doze just because your system is clogged with an enormous meal. If you would only wake up you could do a day's work and be really interesting.

When you have mental work to do or want your mind to be alert and ready, starve yourself a bit. Take your big meal when you have time to digest them without interfering with your mental machinery.

To stay in a temperature at body heat is enervating and sleep producing. We need the gusts of cool air which strike the body like a gently applied whiplash. This keeps us fresh and wide awake.

Uniformity of temperature is deadly to mental activity. Opening the windows means more than getting fresh air. It means that your body is stimulated by the change in temperature. You are refreshed by the effect upon your circulation.

By moving about you stir into being some gent's air currents which excite your blood flow, and pretty soon you are wide-awake and ready for useful service. Don't permit yourself to grow stupid and fat by giving in to your sleepy moods. Grow strong and healthy and vigorous by avoiding the manner of life which makes you nod at your work.

FARM GLIMPSES

BY BILLY TILSON.

Guy Clary of Clearmont is cutting his field of wheat this week. While it is not heavy on the ground it is well headed and a good berry, so the yield per acre will be fair.

A. R. Nance, west of Clearmont, commenced cutting his 49-acre field of wheat Tuesday. Mr. Nance has about as good a field of wheat as we have seen and it will make a good yield. A. R. has out 160 acres of corn and forty acres of oats. His corn is waist high now and will be laid by this week. Oats are going to make a good yield. Mr. Nance, with the aid of a hired man, have done all the farm work this year. He says he has left the steering gear on his automobile rust this summer, caused by standing in the garage too much.

Judge Dick Bailey and son were cutting their field of wheat Tuesday. It will make a fair yield. They have a good prospect for corn and a nice bunch of steers and hogs in the feed lots. The Judge's farm, which is a

"What's in a Name?"

By MILDRED MARSHALL

Facts about your name, its history, meaning, whence it was derived, significance, your lucky day, lucky jewel

VERONICA

VERONICA has full rights to her claims as a holy name. It signifies "true picture" and comes from the Latin "verus," meaning true, and the Greek word for image. The two terms were strangely jumbled together by the popular tongue in the name of the crucifix at Lucca, which was called the Veronica and was that "Holy Face of Lucca" by which oaths were taken.

Another Veronica is the same countenance upon a piece of linen at St. Peter's. The origin being forgotten, this is called St. Veronica's handkerchief, and the popular legend is that a woman who had lent her handkerchief to our Blessed Savior to wipe His face during the passage of the "Via Dolorosa" had found the likeness imprinted on it. In a poem on the life of Pilate, we are told that the suffering emperor of Rome, learning that a woman at Jerusalem named "Veronike" possessed this handkerchief which had the power to heal the sick, sent for her and was cured.

In this way, Veronica became a saint, though there was a real Saint Veronica who lived near Milan in the Fifteenth century. The French love the name and call it Veronique. The Scotch, who have an exquisite blue flower known as Veronica, have given the name national popularity.

Jade is Veronica's talismanic gem. It will bring her good health and long life. Thursday is her lucky day and 4 her lucky number.

The Hotel Stenographer

"It's a fine day," announced the House Detective.

"Yes, it's good weather," replied the Hotel Stenographer. "I do not know what we would do without the weather and making puns. These are the conversational standbys of the stupid."

"Huh?" asked the House Detective.

"Whether it is cold or whether it is hot, we have to have weather, whether or not," punned the girl. "That always gives original people something to talk about. Like the income tax and the parking problem, we have it always with us."

"It must be wonderful, Kelly, to talk about something pleasant all the time. People who work for the oil industry or had factories during the war, can make their own weather, and in consequence can always talk pleasantly. They run down to Miami whenever there is a blizzard, or up to Montreal when it is hot; they go to Arizona when they have a wet spell, or out in the country to get rained on."

"Don't think I am critical, Kelly. Weather was invented a long time ago, and it is one of our grandest institutions, but when I have nothing else to talk about but the weather, I tune out and keep still for a while till a real bright idea about love or dressmaking, scandal or something new and interesting comes to my mind."

"I used to know a John who never talked anything but the weather. He was so stupid the dentist was afraid to give him gas, because he couldn't tell when he became unconscious."

"That's pretty hard on us both, ain't it?" asked Kelly.

"Yes," replied Kelly, "you ain't been doing nothing for the last ten minutes but talk about the weather."

"On your way," cried the girl. "I am a busy woman."

Latin American Trade Increased During 1925

Washington, July 1—After years of uncertainty and disastrous competition with other countries, the United States appears today to have firmly established itself in the trade with Latin America.

A steady rise in imports from the principal southern republics, and a marked advance in exports for last year by the Commerce Department today. The value of exports to Latin America aggregated $880,000,000, it was announced.

The export figures were three times as great in 1925 as in 1913, under pre-war conditions, it was stated.

Prism Devised to Aid in New Observations

London—A small specially made prism glass, encased in a bronze holder, with which science hopes to learn the real truth about the aurora borealis, is waiting its first opportunity for use in the observatory of the Imperial College here.

British science has definitely given up the former theory that the aurora is a reflection of the light of the sun.

The new theory adopted by the Imperial College, is that the aurora is an electrical discharge in the upper atmosphere, probably set up by particles emitted from sun spots.

The approach this year of the maximum number of sun spots, which have been observed to recur every 10 years regularly for the past 60 years, will bring the proper time for the best observations of the aurora, which invariably increases in its number of appearances when the sun is most spotted. "Herbert Dingle, Assistant Professor of Astrophysics at the Imperial College told the United Press.

Glasgow, Ky.—"I am the mother of seven children, the eldest being only 12 years, and I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped to pull me through the roughest places of my married life. At one time I was so downhearted that life was a misery. A friend in Indianapolis, Indiana, told me of the Vegetable Compound, and after taking a few bottles of it I became myself again and it was a pleasure to do my housework and gardening. Since then I always use your medicine when I feel weak from overwork and it straightens me out."

—Mrs. MELISSA BARNES, Route 2, care of O. P. Stoenberg, Glasgow, Ky.

New Orleans, La.—"I could not do a thing after my first boy was born. I was so weak, I had no appetite, lost weight and was not able to do my work. I was this way for seven weeks, then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got wonderful results from it."

—Mrs. C. FAURIE, 4014 Dauphine St., New Orleans, La.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been growing in popularity among women for over fifty years.

Swedish Stars Invade U. S.

Charney Christiernsson and Sten Pettersson, two of Sweden's greatest athletes, are now in this country where Pettersson will compete in the A. A. U. games at Philadelphia next month. Both are hurdlers extraordinary, but Christiernsson, it is understood, came over only to act as Pettersson's coach and trainer. Pettersson is the one shown in the inset.

THIS WEEK IN MISSOURI HISTORY

Compiled by

The State Historical Society of Missouri, Columbia
Floyd C. Shoemaker, Secretary
June 27—July 3.

"Your march and exploits have been the most marvelous of the age." These were the words of welcome delivered by Thomas H. Benton at St. Louis, July 2, 1847, upon the return of Doniphan's Expedition to that city.

This address tells in the masterful manner of Benton, of the historic engagements of Doniphan's Expedition in the Mexican War of 1846-1848. After Governor John C. Edwards issued the call for volunteers in May 1846, within a month 1358 Missourians had gathered at Fort Leavenworth. The First Regiment of Missouri Mounted Volunteers, numbering 856, was mustered into service on June 6, 1846. They chose Alexander W. Doniphan of Clay County as their colonel.

During the year these Missourians were absent from their state, they had marched 3,000 miles and had successfully fought two pitched battles—Bracito and Sacramento. They had not only defeated the Navajos, but they had also conquered three large provinces, and had entered many towns and cities. Furthermore, on account of the lack of communication facilities, much of the expedition was carried on without government orders.

The Jefferson City Inquirer of July 10, 1847, in an account of the St. Louis reception for the Expedition says:

"On the 2nd inst. Colonel Doniphan and a portion of his command arrived in St. Louis. They were welcomed and tendered the hospitalities of the city by Hon. James B. Bowlin; Lieut. Col. Mitchell responded in a very brief and appropriate manner. The Orator of the Day, Col. Benton, then addressed the returned volunteers."

"At the call of your country," said Benton in addressing the soldiers, "you marched a thousand miles to the conquest of New Mexico, as a part of the force under General Kearney, and achieved that conquest without loss of a man or the fire of a gun. The work finished, and New Mexico . . . becomes itself a point of departure—a beginning point for new and far more extended expeditions."

"You look across the long and lofty chain, the Cordilleras of North America, and see beyond that ridge, a savage tribe which has not long been in the habit of depredating upon the province which had just become an American conquest."

"You, a part only of the subsequent Chihuahua column, under Jackson and Gilpin, march upon them—bring them to terms—and they sign a treaty with Doniphan, in which they bind themselves to cease their depredations on the Mexicans and to become friends of the United States."

"This was the meeting, and this the parting of the Missouri volunteers, with the numerous and savage tribes of the Navajo Indians living on the waters of the Gulf of California, and so long the terror and scourge of Sonora, Sinaloa, and New Mexico."

"This object accomplished, and impatient to inactivity and without orders, (General Kearney having departed for California) you cast about to carve out some new work for yourselves. Chihuahua, a rich and populous city of 30,000, was the captivating object which fixed your attention . . . The desert was passed and the place for crossing the river was approached. The little arm of the river, Bracito, made out from its side. There the enemy in superior numbers, and confident in cavalry and artillery, undertook to bar the way. Their discovery, attack, and rout were simultaneous operations. A few minutes did the work. And in this way our Missouri volunteers of the Chihuahua column spent their Christmas Day of the year 1846."

After crossing the Del Norte river, the army rested in the village of Passo del Norte until February. During this month the battle of Sacramento was fought. Of this battle Benton said:

"The battle of Sacramento, one of the military marvels of the age, cleared the road to Chihuahua, which was entered without further resistance."

"The next movement of the expedition was to march from Chihuahua to Saltillo, a distance of 470 miles. Benton in referring to this part of the expedition's march, said:

"Mexican towns were passed in order and quiet; plundering Comanches were punished; means were obtained from traders to liquidate indispensable contributions; and the wants that could not be supplied, were endured like soldiers of veteran service!"

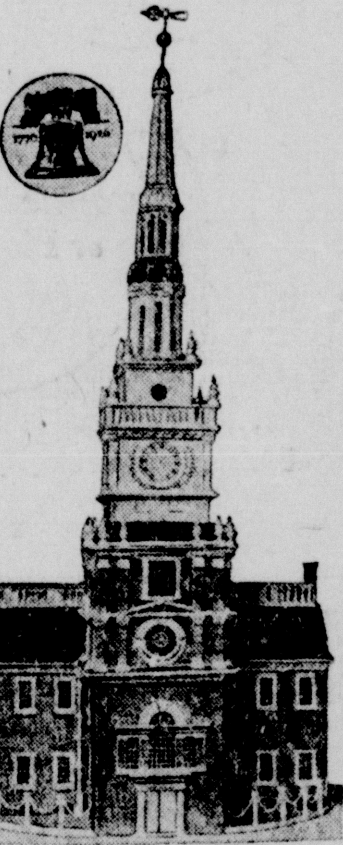

The taking of Saltillo ended the campaign. The men embarked for their homes from the Rio Grande during June and July.

The reception for the soldiers was closed with an address by Col. Doniphan. The colonel described the activities of the soldiers under him, and commented upon the valor which the Missourians displayed in battle and on the march.

The words of both Benton and Doniphan have become a part of Missouri's historic record in this period of American affairs. The work of the Expedition might well be summed up in the words of Benton.

"Going out of the western border of your state, you re-entered it on the east, having made a circle equal to the fourth of the circumference of the globe, providing for yourselves as you went, and returning with trophies taken from fields, the name of which were unknown to yourselves and your country, until revealed by your enterprise, illustrated by your valor, and immortalized by your deeds."

HISTORY IN CAKE

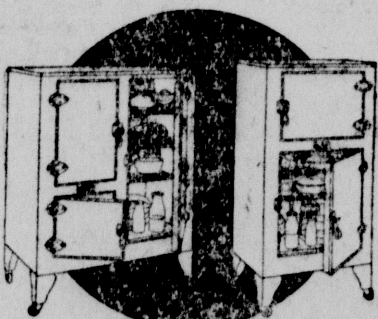

This replica of historic Independence Hall in Philadelphia is a fine example of the baker's art. It was made by the chef of one of Philadelphia's leading hotels to advertise the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition, which will open in that city June 1 and run to December 1 to celebrate the 150th anniversary of American Independence. The "State House" stands on a table at the entrance to the main dining room of the hotel.

Zoning Law Causes Decrease in Building

Unfamiliarity of Public With New Regulations Is Blamed for Slump At St. Louis.

(This is one of a series of articles to be written for the Democrat-Forum and Tribune by A. Keshen, a member of the class in special correspondence of the Missouri School of Journalism, which is visiting various points of interest in the state).

St. Louis, July 1.—St. Louis' new zoning law has resulted in a decrease of building permits issued since the law went into effect on May 26. This can be explained in that people are not yet thoroughly familiar with the provisions of the ordinance and the type of building satisfactory to their ideas and their own particular zones. With a growing popular knowledge of the type of building conforming to the zones, it is expected that the number of permits issued will be back to normal.

E. O. Aegerter, deputy building commissioner, reports that tenement houses and stores have decreased in number and value of construction. The small one-family apartment house is becoming more popular. With the reduction of rents, good apartments are obtainable at reasonable prices, making the construction of four-family apartments unfeasible.

Mr. Aegerter interprets the gradual decrease in permits as an indication that the present needs of the people, as far as dwelling houses and stores are concerned, have been satisfied. The ratio between the population and the number of tenements and stores is at present on nearly an equal footing.

An average of about sixty permits are issued daily with an estimated cost of $100,000 for the buildings. All types of construction are included in this estimate.

Since the war period the value of buildings constructed each year has been doubled. A one-third increase in 1925 over the preceding year in estimated valuation, was noted.

Under the terms of the new zoning law, the building must fit the locality in which it is to be constructed, in materials used and cost and style of building. After completing these preliminary arrangements, the prospective builder pays a fee of $2 per first thousand estimated cost and $1 for each thousand thereafter.

The city receives an annual revenue of $70,000 from the buildings commission department. In addition to issuing permits, this bureau inspects property for an inspection fee of $5.

On Same Farm Since 1868.

The Journal some weeks ago told of different ones in this vicinity who have lived on the same farm for a long period of time. Now comes John Ringgold, southwest of Hopkins, breaking all previous records, having lived on the same farm continuously since 1868, or for fifty-eight years. Next—Hopkins Journal.

Sedalia Visitors Return.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Brumbaugh and daughter, Florence, have returned to their home at Sedalia, Mo., after a two weeks' visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Shupe, near Stanberry. Miss Florence was graduated from high school at Sedalia this year and will enter college there next year. Mrs. Brumbaugh came to Maryville also to visit a Maryville eye specialist, receiving treatment for iritis of the left eye, from which she suffered very much.
